THE BERIA PURGE AND SUBSEQUENT SOVIET POLICY

I. Timing of Beria's arrest in relation to Soviet Policies.

A. Timing of Beria's fall from power.

1. Earliest indication Beria's influence dropping is postponement Georgian Party Congress called for 25 May.
2. Beria's absence from opera 27 June plus presence tanks same day vicinity his house lead Western observers to place his actual arrest that date.
3. Berlin riots may have provided opportunity and pretext to do away with him.
4. However, some evidence his fall occurred prior to riots:

B. Relation to Soviet Policies.

1. Must consider that Beria's policy position prior to his fall may have little relation to subsequent course Soviet policy.
2. Most important factor Beria purge appears as internal power struggle. Borne out by accusations he using police for personal ends.
3. More likely Beria was antagonist than proponent of soft tactics.
4. "Internal liberalization" program composed three parts:
 - (a) New emphasis on increasing consumer goods. Indications this policy continues - (1) increased butter imports from Dutch, (2) frozen beef, mutton, pork orders to Australia, (3) Soviet plan for first half 1953 increases emphasis on consumer goods.
 - (b) De-emphasis government dependence on repressive system forced labor (amnesty decree) plus promise rewrite criminal code in favor of civil rights. Unlikely Beria as police chief favored governmental re-organization or acts limiting his ministry's functions or removing his trained personnel.

(c) Anti-Russification propaganda campaign emphasizing equality of minorities with Great Russians. This apparently reversed. Probably connected with Beria since he apparently touched off campaign by his April reorganization of the Georgian party and government.

5. Propaganda re Beria emphasized his connection with West and echoes vigilance campaign. However, in past few days anti-Beria propaganda strangely deemphasized. Too early to determine significance.
6. Quiet removal two most recent purges possibly connected Beria suggests there may not be large show trials. Purges may be gradual and limited to few high officials.
7. Increase in anti-US propaganda re Korea, East German riots, and implication with Beria as Western agent tailored
